A New Railway in Panama

Panama Canal Zone (By Cable)—R. W. Hebard & Co., Panama, has the concession for the Chiriqui R.R. All purchases will be made by J. M. Motley, 16 Exchange Place, New York.

The Chiriqui project consists of a line from Pedregal, on the Pacific, to David. From this point there will be two branches, one 20 miles to La Concepcion, and another, 33 miles, to La Boquet. The La Boquet branch presents some unusual features, as an elevation of 4000 ft. will have to be attained in a distance of 33 miles. The funds for the construction will be furnished by the Republic of Panama. This information was obtained by a special representative of "Engineering News," who is now in South America.

From the "Canal Record," issue of Sept. 2, we extract the following:

"Grading on the new railroad in the province of Chiriqui has been completed for a distance of about seven miles, four miles between the port of Pedregal and the city of David, and three miles on the La Concepción branch of the road. This branch line, extending from David to the village of La Concepción, a distance of about 18 miles, will be the first to be completed.

"About 25,000 Oregon pine creosoted ties have been delivered to date; these cost, laid down, about $1 each. The contractors, R. W. Hebard & Co., are preparing specifications and conditions under which native ties, delivered at any point on the line, will be purchased. It is anticipated that 25,000 native hardwood ties can be obtained locally. The contractors are purchasing from the Panama Canal all the old 70-lb. rail in good condition that can be spared, in addition to a miscellaneous lot of other equipment, including two small Porter locomotives, used in the construction of the canal locks."

American Machinery for Spain—The Spanish government has entered the American market for the immediate purchase $2,000,000 of contractors' machinery and machine tools.

This report, emanating from the Foreign Trade Bureau of the Philadelphia Commercial Museum, has been verified by a representative of "Engineering News."

George C. Gibson, Asst. Chief of the Foreign Trade Bureau, placed the correspondence relative to this statement at the disposal of our representative.

Of chief interest was a letter, dated Madrid, Aug. 20, from the Sociedad General de Representaciones, agents for machinery and accessories of all classes, industrial installations, and materials for railroads and tramways. In part it was as follows: "We have contracts to furnish the Spanish government with several million dollars' worth of machinery and supplies but the war has prevented our fulfilling these contracts since most of the orders were placed with German and French firms."

"As you know, the Spanish government has given orders to start important public works, and millions will be spent for this purpose. This firm is furnishing all the factories of the War and Navy Departments with machines and tools and manufacturers of the following lines are requested to enter into communication with us for the supply of machinery, to wit: sensitive and upright drilling machines, cold metal sawing machines, gear-cutting machines, punching and shearing machines, grinding and polishing machines and machines for the manufacture of automatic revising and refilling of cartridges for Mauser guns."

In an interview with George C. Newcomb, Spanish consul at Philadelphia, Monday morning, in regard to the status of this company, he said, "This firm is one of the largest and most responsible in Spain, however, beyond that I know of no specific contracts which they may be handling for the government."

Senor C. G. Salas, Spanish Consul General, New York, when questioned Monday afternoon regarding definite plans and appropriations on the part of the government, said: "Last year in the official budget there was made an appropriation of some $10,000,000 for improvements to extend over a period of ten years, but due to the problem of unemployed labor, I understand that steps have been taken to push the work along as rapidly as possible, so as to give employment to the idle men.

"The work which the government has undertaken includes new roads, electric power installation, railway and illumination, irrigation, the dredging of Cadiz harbor together with the building of quays and breakwaters at the same port, railways in Morocco and the improvement of the port of Melilla."

The Max Ams Machine Co., Mt. Vernon, N. Y., is erecting an additional plant at Bridgeport, Conn., to take care of its increasing business, especially the export trade through its representatives in South Africa, Australia, India, China, Japan, South America, England and the continent. The area is approximately fifteen acres, on which a modern plant, equipped with every facility is being erected.

The main shop and adjacent saw tooth sections, will contain every modern tool and device that the progress of the industry requires. The main erecting shop will be provided with 25-ton electric cranes, and railroad sidings will run into the plant to facilitate the handling of large units.

In addition to these buildings, there will be a special administration building three stories high, for the general and private offices and drafting room. This building will be connected by means of bridges with the works. The power and heating plants will be in separate buildings.

The welfare of the employees of the company will be looked after by the erection of a special recreation building and the laying out of baseball grounds and tennis courts.

The output of the concern is largely machinery for the making of tin containers, applied more particularly to the food industry. It likewise builds an extensive line of power presses for the sheet metal working industry. The company expects to occupy its new home about February 1915.

Cheney Bros., South Manchester, Conn., silk manufacturers, have had plans prepared for four buildings which will be used for the welfare of their employees. A primary school, vocational school, library and club will be erected in a quadrangle. The contract for the erection of the primary school has already been awarded to the Aberthaw Construction Co., Boston. The estimated cost of this building alone is $110,000. Carrere & Hastings, New York, are the Archs.

The New England Foundation Co., Boston, Mass., will drive 2500 Simplex Piles for the foundation of the plant for the Standard Oil Co., at Long Island City, N. Y. A test of one of these piles was made for the building department of New York City. It sustained a load of 60 tons without settlement.

The same firm will use 290 Standard Simplex Piles for the new weave shed of the Naumkeag Steam Cotton Co., Salem, Mass.
